THE SHEPPARD TRIAL.

W. Clark remembered the occasion of the murder; went with Mr. Carpenter from his house to May Buchanan's and stood at front door until police came; noticed blood spots on the snow about a yard from the door.

Inspector A. E. Snyder remembered the day of the arrest of Sheppard; it was December 7th; the Chinaman came to the barracks about 2 o'clock and said some one was trying to kill May Buchanan; he spoke bad English, and I had some difficulty in understanding him; went to the house accompanied by constables Dundas and Murray; found Mr. Carpenter and Mr. Clark at the house; entered the bed room and found the body on the floor; prisoner was on the bed; his head to the east; he was lying across the bed; one foot projected over the edge; he was covered completely by the blankets, except the one foot; the room was dark when I entered as there was a heavy curtain on the window, and I did not notice Sheppard at first; on looking at the body saw an axe standing against the wall a foot and a half from the head of the body; the face was covered with blood; there was a large pool of dark clotted blood on the floor at the left side of the head; there was a deep wound on the left side of the head; a pane of glass in the window was broken, I suppose by the bottle that was lying outside of the house; broken glass had fallen inside and out; while waiting for the constable with handcuffs the prisoner lay quite still on the bed; I considered that he was asleep or quite insensible; did not notice any blood on his clothes or person; noticed a butcher knife on the dressing table, also a portion of a broken crock on the bed and a portion on the floor; identify paper found by a member of the coroner's jury in my presence on the wall were written the words "She will never ruin another man"; found an envelope containing some powders from which the slip found by the juryman appeared to have been torn; also found a promissory note; the envelope was found on the washstand in the room where the murder was committed; had known Sheppard two years before at Sheep Creek.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bown. Prisoner lay quiet until the handcuffs were put on; he seemed rather dazed and continued in that state for sometime; the refuse outside the window was very dirty; did not take samples for analysis;

Constable Murray: Made the arrest with Constable Lamb; was sent by Mr. Snyder for the rig immediately after the arrest.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bown. Was one of the constables who put the handcuffs on prisoner; think he was either asleep or dazed; he made no resistance; just opened his eyes and looked at me; acted as well as any one else in barracks.

Constable Reiter. Was left in charge of May's house from the time of the arrest until the jury came; there was no alteration in things.

Constable Dalton. Searched Sheppard at the barracks half an hour after his arrival and found a small pencil and four matches; he made no remarks.

Dr. McNis. Am a duly qualified physician and surgeon; was in professional attendance on May Buchanan at her house two days before the murder; she sent for me, as her regular physician was away; she had a slight congestion of the lungs and an attack of the grippe; she was in bed; during the afternoon about four o'clock a man let me into the house; he opened the door and disappeared without showing his face; would not know if it was the prisoner; visited her next day and found her still in bed; the same man was in the house but did not see him; he was dressed in brown pants, frock coat, colored shirt and had light hair; I prescribed a bottle of medicine and packet of powders; attended at the house with the coroner's jury and made the post mortem examination; on the left side of the head just above the ear was a cut one and a half inches long and one inch deep, causing the ear to drop; also a cut three inches above the ear, two and a half inches long, penetrating the tissues and through the bone, exposing the brain; above the last named cut was another one inch long, evidently cut with a sharp instrument, penetrating only to the bone; on the left temple one inch above and behind the left eye was a scar one inch long, the tissues bruised down to the bone; on right cheek bone beginning under the middle of the eye was a cut one and a quarter inches long; the eye is blackened, that is the lower eyelid blackened before death occurred; on the left arm half way between the pit and elbow was a ragged cut two and a half inches long running transversely through the skin and tissues down to the muscles; this cut was given I believe before death; all the other wounds were given before death occurred; the cuts were made with a sharp instrument; could not have been done with the knife produced unless done with great rapidity; could not have been done with the blade of an axe; the wound under the eye might have been done with a blunt instrument; as also the large wound in the head; the skull on the left side was broken and was cracked from ear to ear; a large amount of force was used; the large wound was made before death and would cause immediate death.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bown. Had attended deceased two days; a man called "Shep" was there; did not give prisoner any directions; the accused is the man called "Shep"; there was a Chinaman named Charles You who walked into the room; he used to garden in the summer; did not actually see the prisoner; only supposed he was the man "Shep."

Dr. Tofield. Was in attendance on deceased for six years; was treating her for disease of the liver; was at Wetaskiwin at the time of her death; had known Sheppard for five years; had seen him at the house up to the time I left for Wetaskiwin; had seen him there several times; was at Wetaskiwin ten days; visited deceased about every other day; also attended Sheppard; he was apparently living there.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bown. Have seen the Chinaman there; he was presumed to be a servant; he was small; attended Sheppard for delirium tremens; he was not an habitual drunkard but knew him to drink heavily at times; he had not recovered when I saw him last; saw him about four days before the murder occurred; the deceased knew he was in that state; the disease may be produced by a continued course of drinking; a man is liable to get the d. t.'s after drinking ten or twelve days and may not get it in twenty years; described the symptoms of d. t.'s; the disease may drive a man to suicide or murder.

Court adjourned until 10 a.m. on Thursday the 17th.

THURSDAY, May 17th.

Dr. Tofield's examination continued. Was treating Sheppard about twelve days before the murder at his request; he stated that he was not well from the effects of drink; prescribed for him, but do not remember what it was; saw him about three times during my visits to May Buchanan's; cannot say if I prescribed for him on each occasion; nor did I pay particular attention to his physical condition; Sheppard was suffering from d. t.'s when he first spoke to me, and when I prescribed for him; noticed on other occasions that Sheppard was suffering from d. t.'s and behaved like a man who was suffering from the effects of heavy drinking; noticed indications of development of d. t.'s as he was drinking; saw him drinking in the room in which the murder was committed; suppose it was whiskey; cannot say if it occurred more than once; did not see him for four days before the murder; examined the prisoner with Dr. Baldwin, and also again myself.

Robert Shannon. Have known prisoner for some years; was in partnership with him; know his handwriting; the writing produced resembles his writing; considerably believe the writing is his; it is two years since I saw his writing; (examined the piece of paper found by the member of the coroner's jury) cannot say if it is the handwriting of Sheppard; do not think it resembles his hand as it was when I was in business with him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bown. Was in partnership with Sheppard about three years; he bore a good character; did not know he had a temper.

Dr. Watson. Am physician in the Northwest mounted police; first saw prisoner on 8th December on the day after his arrest; took charge of the prisoner on the first day while he was taking his dinner; slept in the same room with him that night; had a conversation with Sheppard during his stay at the barracks; Sheppard commenced the conversation; I cautioned him that anything he might say might be used as evidence against him; he went on with the conversation; I could not stop him; so I let him talk; as nearly as I remember he said: "The night previous to the murder May Buchanan wanted prisoner to live with her at Sheep Creek; she made at the prisoner with a pitcher; got her pacified after some trouble; he threw an axe which was in the room out the window; through the pane; having pacified the woman prisoner went to bed; while in bed deceased threatened to kill prisoner if he would not go and live with her; in the morning he went outside to get the axe to kindle the fire; while outside getting the axe he said to himself aloud that he would not live with her; supposed she heard him; on his returning to the room she rushed out with a knife; prisoner struck deceased with an axe; and seeing that she did not come to, struck her three or four times with the axe."

Cross-examined by Mr. Bown. Have been a year and two months in the Mounted Police force; joined the force in the capacity of physician; rank as a constable promoted to the rank of staff-sergeant; am working to the best of my ability for advancement; cautioned prisoner the first day I had charge of him, as soon as he commenced to talk; knew that it was my duty to do so; this was the day following his arrest; during the two hours or so stated no person came into the room; prisoner was agitated or worried; prisoner told the story straight away, keeping the thread of it without branching off; I joined in the conversation; do not remember what I said; may have asked prisoner some questions; this conversation took place on the 8th day of December; prisoner talked in the night; stopped him as I wanted to sleep.

This closed the case for the crown. Dr. Tofield was called for the defence. Believe that the examination of the prisoner with Dr. Baldwin was on December 8th; the result of the examination gave me the idea that he was suffering from d. t.'s; he was in an agitated condition, feeble, tremulous pulse, pupil of eye dilated, and to my mind showed that he was suffering from alcoholism; was then probably recovering from an attack; proxysims caused by d. t.'s are necessarily continuous over a length of time; they may or may not be; might last for five or ten minutes or for days and weeks; during the time it lasts the patient would have no control over himself at all.

Cross-examined by Mr. Beck, Crown prosecutor. Mean by acute attack immediate but not necessarily short; an acute attack of rheumatism for instance would be a sudden attack caused by some agent; d. t.'s is caused by drink; a man not an habitual drunkard can in my opinion have d. t.'s; have seen a man after a week's drinking have an attack; this depends on the subject; know that "Barthelow's Practice of Medicine" is a recognized work on alcoholism; but have not read it; do not believe that a chronic state of alcoholism is necessary to precede d. t.'s; any of the organs may be diseased but do not consider any of these derangements necessary; do not see why a man who is not an habitual drinker being excited by drink and under its influence and suffering from delirium should not be said to be suffering from d. t.'s; mean to say that I do not agree with Dr. Barthelow in his distinction between alcoholic delirium and delirium tremens; these acute attacks are of nervous direction.

Re-examined by Mr. Bown. It would be impossible to get d. t.'s in one night's drinking.

Dr. Baldwin. Examined the prisoner just before the adjourned inquest, the day after the murder, between two and three o'clock; made memo immediately after the examination; Dr. Tofield took notes during the examination, at the close of which I went to Tofield's house and made my copy; have here memo of my copy; found Sheppard in a very nervous condition; seemingly in a state of great suppressed excitement; pulse quick and soft, about 100 per minute; tremulous and coated tongue; damp moist skin; slightly dilated pupils; an examination

THE SHEPPARD TRIAL.

tion of the retina of the eye found it congested; from the physical condition of the man and from his answers to questions I am of opinion that he was recovering from an attack of acute mania; most probably alcoholic; had examined him some months before for life insurance; so had some idea of how I might expect to find his physical condition; acute alcoholic mania is a kind of insanity produced by chronic alcoholism; an acute attack of mania would be probably produced in stages according to the patient; it is generally known as the horrors and is the state in which the normal balance of brain is upset by alcoholic poisoning, as a rule, but not always; it is hardly possible for a man to have d. t.'s, unless he had been drinking for some considerable time; d. t.'s takes the form of "horrors" that is hearing abnormal sounds and having optical delusions.

Cross-examined by Mr. Beck. The after effects of alcohol would probably cause nervous condition, but do not think it would cause vomiting; he would not necessarily have a craving for liquor; that is after alcoholic mania; do not think the prisoner could have drunk a bottle of whiskey immediately after the murder, as the condition in which I found him on examination did not indicate it; when I examined him for the L.O.F. insurance I passed him as an almost total abstainer.

Court adjourned until 2 o'clock.

McLean. Have known prisoner for about four years; worked with him on the Regina and Long lake road and also on the C. & E. for some time; met him at the Jasper house in town; he was drinking; went to May Buchanan's with him; there was drinking there; did not stay there more than an hour and a half; prisoner remained there; he was intoxicated when I left him; saw him again the following evening at the same place; went to see him on business; remained there not more than an hour; asked him to come away with me; he was coming but May Buchanan persuaded him not to; did not see him again before the murder; the last time I saw him he was drinking considerably; saw him drink something while I was there, what I supposed to be whiskey; saw him perhaps two or three weeks previously in Edmonton; he told me that he came to Edmonton for a load of brick; saw him two or three days after; he was sober but was drinking; his condition was the same when I saw him subsequently; he got the brick; I went with him; think he was then fit to look after himself; saw him some time during the summer; he was drinking considerably; never knew him to be quarrelsome man.

Cross-examined by Mr. Beck. I worked on C. & E. bridge construction; saw prisoner occasionally; when I knew him previously he was not drinking more than an ordinary man when not working; when I went to May Buchanan's two weeks before the murder prisoner was intoxicated when I left the house; do not remember having seen prisoner drunk previously; think he was drinking more than when in Calgary.

T. G. Lander. Am a baker here; remember the time when May Buchanan was killed; was supplying bread to her house; delivered the bread myself three times a week; have seen the prisoner there; saw him first probably two weeks before May Buchanan's death; saw him probably two or three times before her death; noticed nothing particular about his condition; he was very quiet; did not act in any way queer; saw him the last time the day before the murder; he appeared then about the same as on other occasions; left the bread on the sidewalk; could not say if he was drinking; looked kind of dazed the last day I saw him; he opened the door for me; May Buchanan was in bed; she called out that she wanted three loaves.

Frank Hamilton. Am a livery stable keeper at Wetaskiwin; formerly resided in Calgary; have been at Wetaskiwin about a year; resided about five years in Calgary; was in a saloon and restaurant for a while and then in the livery business; know the prisoner; have known him about three years; was subpoenaed by Mr. Beck; prisoner worked for me about two years at Calgary and Wetaskiwin; he was always a man who drank quite a lot; never saw him unable to attend to his business; never knew him to get on a spree; remember sending him for brick; think it was in December last; might have been earlier; he was away just a week; he should have returned in three days; saw him at a distance when he returned; do not remember having stated that Sheppard used to take a bottle home and drink alone.

Cross-examined by Mr. Beck. Learned that he was familiar with May Buchanan; knew that he had stayed with her in Calgary; while I knew him he was a quiet man.

George Murdoch. Am an auctioneer in Calgary; have acted as J. P. there; dealt with most of the town cases; knew May Buchanan; have had her up for assault; know the prisoner ever since he came to the country; had no dealings with him as J. P.; never heard anything about him except his connection with May Buchanan; know nothing about his habits; saw at one time he drinking hard; was subpoenaed by the crown.

Cross-examined by the crown. Never knew anything against the prisoner's character; deceased was up before me for assault, once certainly and I fancy twice, and was fined for assaulting a rival.

Dr. Watson re-called by the crown. First saw Sheppard the day after his arrest at noon; (a discussion arose here between the defence and the crown as to the right of the latter to re-call witness, the re-call was allowed by the judge.) Did not notice anything particular about Sheppard's condition from the time of my first seeing him to the time of my leaving; he ate well and slept fairly well; his nerves seemed to be very steady for a man in his position; he was agitated; a man generally is under arrest; slept in the room with him that night; saw him parts of the next day; do not remember when he was brought down to Fort Saskatchewan; since then I have been in charge of him; have been in practice six years as a physician; heard Dr. Baldwin's account of the examination; believe that when prisoner showed the body to Carpenter and asked, "What are you going to do about it?" that he knew what he was doing and that he was sane; the symptoms mentioned by Dr. Baldwin might have been induced by drinking in the case of an habitual drinker; since his confinement at his health has improved; he has gained considerable flesh.

Dr. Wilson. Am a coroner; held the inquest on May Buchanan; saw prisoner inside of an hour after the murder; Mr. Snyder sent a team down to my house; being at home I went at once; did not observe prisoner particularly at once; went to the barracks in the same rig with prisoner; did not see him till that night when the inquest was held; looked at prisoner closely but made no examination at that time; when prisoner was brought out of the house he walked in an ordinary manner; saw prisoner at the inquest; he was in the room probably three hours; saw him again the next afternoon at the inquest, which lasted till nearly six p.m.; did not notice anything special in his appearance up to the end of the inquest; cannot say that I formed any opinion as to the state of prisoner's mind; only that he acted naturally; did not again see prisoner till yesterday; heard the evidence of Dr. Baldwin; there is nothing in my mind in the evidence to show that the prisoner was insane; do not think that drinking a bottle of whiskey after the act would produce the symptoms as described, but they might coupled with the fact of a man being an habitual drinker; acute alcoholic mania is a mania produced by excessive use of alcohol for a limited time, in contra distinction to d. t.'s, which occurs only as a feature in the history of chronic alcoholism after indulgence for a long period; an alcoholic mania is perfectly sane for a time; a man not in the habit of drinking, in one day's drinking to excess, being excited and suffering from alcoholic delirium might rave or talk but would not want to commit any act; but a man with alcoholic mania would generally want to commit some act.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bown. Delirium tremens is not a disease but is a feature in the drunkard's life; a man with d. t.'s would be a maniac for the time; a man suffering from acute alcoholic mania would be insane; the inclinations are homicidal generally; the eye would be a symptom but not a reliable one; the retina is deep seated and cannot be examined without an instrument, at least I could not; d. t.'s in the common sense occurs only in the old habitual drinker.

Re-examined by Mr. Beck. Acute alcoholic mania might last for a moment and might last for a length of time.

Dr. Braithwaite. Have practiced about four years; from what I have heard said by Mr. Carpenter, Dr. Watson and the other medical men I should conclude that the prisoner was of sound mind; the symptoms as found by Dr. Baldwin might be brought on by other causes than those of alcoholism in mental worry for instance; think they might have been caused by sudden heavy drinking.

Dr. Royal corroborated the evidence of Dr. Braithwaite as to the condition of prisoner's mind; the combination of symptoms described by Dr. Baldwin might have been brought on by other causes than alcoholic mania, but you could hardly find all the symptoms combined except produced by acute alcoholic delirium; could not examine retina without the use of an ophthalmoscope.

This concluded the evidence. Mr. Bown addressed the jury on behalf of the prisoner as follows: May it please your Lordship, gentlemen of the jury, after a trial lasting two days, my work is about ended; yours has now to begin. You have to decide on the life or the death of a fellow man. For murder, you are aware that there is only one punishment, that is death. The definition of murder is that a person killing another must have a fixed intention to commit the act. Before you find this man guilty of murder the crown must prove that the killing was done by him. If he did the killing we have to show that there was some justification or excuse. (Here Mr. Bown quoted certain legal authorities as to the difference between murder and manslaughter, excuses such as insanity etc. and reviewed the evidence). In weighing all the points in the evidence, wherever there is any doubt you must give the prisoner the benefit of that doubt; provided the doubt be reasonable. The task now before you gentlemen of the jury is a very serious one. Thank God I am not on the jury. Away down in Dakota you must remember there is a mother anxiously watching and waiting your verdict. Here is a young man on the threshold of life awaiting his doom; I would ask you gentlemen of the jury, should you find the prisoner guilty to strongly recommend him to mercy. I now leave the matter in your hands.

The court adjourned until 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Beck for the crown then addressed the jury as follows: May it please your Lordship, gentlemen of the jury. I will merely propose to keep you long. I will merely review some of the points taken by my learned friend. The first of these points was: Did the prisoner commit the deed? Another was the possibility of some unknown party, who might have made his escape unseen, having committed the deed. The possibility of the Chinaman knowing more about the affair was also touched on. In weighing the evidence in your minds you must not take isolated pieces of evidence to guide you, but you must take the accumulated evidence to remove the doubts caused by the suggestive evidence. If Dr. Watson's evidence is to be believed, there can be no doubt as to who did the deed. And although Dr. Watson's evidence was impugned, nothing was brought forward to show that he was not telling the truth. (The slip of paper found by the coroner's juryman was here shown to the jury to be compared with the letter proved to be in prisoner's hand writing; and legal authority was cited to show that circumstantial evidence was admissible.) As to the combat with the knife and axe, you must understand that when a person is attacked he must repel force with only sufficient force to repel the attack, but here the prisoner in his story to Dr. Watson says that the woman rushed at him with a knife and he made a stroke at her and seeing that she did not come to give her one or more cuts. Was the deed committed when the prisoner was temporarily insane? The defence has to prove the insanity. If you are not satisfied as to the insanity you cannot acquit the prisoner, but you might if you saw fit recommend him to mercy.

His Lordship Judge Rouleau charged the jury as follows: Gentlemen of the jury you have now heard all the evidence in the case. The book from which the crown prosecutor read you the definition of murder and manslaughter was read from the same book from which I was going to read. It is therefore unnecessary for me to go over this again. You can accept it as good sense and law. In the evidence you have heard Mr. Carpenter's evidence which shows that a murder had been committed. He went to the house within a short time after its occurrence and found the prisoner there. You have also the evidence of Inspector Snyder to support Mr. Carpenter's evidence; You have also the evidence of the prisoner which is good evidence, I think, because he was cautioned on commencing to tell his story that anything he said would be used against him. The witnesses have given their evidence in all cases in a clear and truthful manner. I believe they are straight witnesses. Now I am not the judge of these facts. It is for you to weigh them and decide if the prisoner at the bar is guilty of murder. You have the theory of insanity. I do not believe much in those theories. Doctors have lots of theories, but because the eye is a little more dilated and so on a man has alcoholic mania and is insane is a poor theory. But bear in mind if you have any doubts on these or any other points—I mean doubts that may arise in the minds of reasonable men—you know some men doubt everything; give the prisoner the benefit of those doubts. You will now retire.

The jury returned at 8:55 p. m. after 20 minutes absence. Their names were called and the judge asked "Are you agreed gentlemen?"

D. Maloney foreman, replied, "Yes my Lord, we find the prisoner guilty of manslaughter."

The judge thanked the jury for their patience and attention and told them they were discharged. He then said "Prisoner at the bar, stand up. Have you anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon you?" The prisoner replied "I have not." The judge then delivered sentence as follows: "Prisoner, you have been tried by your countrymen and found guilty of killing a fellow being, and that being a woman with whom you were intimate—your partner in crime and infamy. That woman has gone to a higher tribunal than this court to answer for her sins. Providence is sure to find the criminal and bring him to justice. You have lived a life of debauchery. You have defied all the laws of morality. I do not think I would be doing my duty if I gave less considering the circumstances of the case, so you will go to the Manitoba penitentiary for the remainder of your life. I trust you will have time to repent of your sins."

The prisoner was then handcuffed and removed to the police barracks.

PATRONS OF INDUSTRY.

TO THE BULLETIN.
A meeting of the patrons of industry of South Edmonton county association was held in Wilkie & Dickson's real estate office, South Edmonton, on the 12th inst. Vice president, W. Keith in the chair.

The question of dividing Northern and Southern Alberta into two separate electoral districts was discussed. It was the belief of those present, that Northern Alberta had practically no representation in the Commons; that our needs were not brought before the house until they became such a pressing necessity as to require a delegation to be sent to Ottawa at the expense of the district. It was argued that the interests of Northern and Southern Alberta were altogether different; the former being adapted to the perfect maturing of all cereal crops, and producing as it does the finest and most perfect flavored butter and cheese it should and does rank as one of the best districts in the Dominion for mixed farming; in short it has been called—and rightly, too—an agricultural paradise; whilst Southern Alberta with its vast stretches of clear rolling prairie is better qualified for the ranching interests alone. On motion being put, a unanimous vote in favor of a division into two separate electoral districts was the result.

A resolution was unanimously passed condemning the government for the petty reductions recently made in the tariff. It was shown that the price of our produce is governed by a free market, yet the high freight rates charged for hauling said produce to market left but a small margin of profit to the farmer after deducting the cost of production, and the shippers percentage; also that with the excessively high tariff and exorbitant freight rates on machinery, coal oil, groceries and other articles which we require, the farmers had to economize at every point to be able to square their accounts at the end of each year and keep the sheriff at a respectable distance; yet not satisfied with keeping a protective tariff on the things actually required to develop our great country, the government must needs place a prohibitive tariff on the reading matter which we enjoy in winter, and also on the light to read it by. In short, the government seems to be afraid of our intellectual development.

A vote of thanks was given Messrs. Wilkie & Dickson, those gentlemen having kindly placed their office at the disposal of the association for the day.

On motion the association adjourned to meet again on the third Saturday in June.
